

Senate Committee Approves Warren's Nomination

12 To 3 Vote
Sends Name To Senate Floor

By Wilmot Hercher
Washington (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee voted 12-3 yesterday to approve President Eisenhower's nomination of Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States.
Before acting on the appointment, the committee opened its doors to a man officially described as "a fugitive from justice" and listened for two hours to his views on why Warren should not be confirmed for the highest judicial post in the land.
In between his appearances at a closed-door session of the committee, the witness, Roderick J. Wilson, was arrested on information supplied by police in San Francisco. Authorities there said he is wanted on a charge of subornation of perjury, that is, inducing another person to lie under oath.
Later, however, a municipal court judge refused to issue a fugitive warrant for Wilson, and he was released.
Warren, former Republican governor of California, was appointed during the last congressional adjournment and took his place on the Supreme Court bench in October. Eisenhower sent his nomination to the Senate Jan. 11.
Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican floor leader, predicts Warren's appointment will be overwhelmingly confirmed by the Senate. He announced it would come to the floor Friday.

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho), a member of the Judiciary Committee, reported that Wilson's testimony against Warren behind closed doors was "a mass of hearsay and conclusions that would not under any circumstances be regarded as legal and competent evidence."
Apparently Wilson's story did not influence to any extent the three Democratic members of the committee who voted against approving Warren's appointment. Senators Olin D. Johnston (SC), Eastland (Miss) and Kilgore (W-Va.).
Johnston said he voted "no" principally "because the committee asked for a full FBI report on Warren, and we didn't get it." Eastland said he opposed confirmation because he didn't think Warren had enough judicial experience, but he said there was nothing to the charges that had been made against the former governor.
Kilgore announced he will support Warren's nomination when it comes before the Senate. His vote yesterday, he said, was "a protest against procedures."

Demos Block
Debate On Amendment

Washington (AP) — Democrats forced adjournment of the Senate last night on an almost straight party-line vote, abruptly halting debate on the Bricker constitutional amendment to curb treaty powers.
The vote was 48-45 with Sens. Morse (Ind-Rep) and Langer (R-ND) joining the Democrats to upset a demand of Republican Leader Knowland of California for a night session. Sens. Bridges (R-NH), Symington (D-Mo) and McCarran (D-Nev) were absent.
The result was regarded by some senators as a test of strength between the administration and its critics.
The adjournment move followed a day of debate during which Knowland urged the Senate to put off until next year any action toward requiring congressional approval of executive agreements. He said more study was needed.

Air-Ground Search Fails
To Uncover Ball Of Fire

Snow Hill — Whether it was a flying saucer, a "ball of fire" or a crashing airplane, veteran woodmen here are convinced an illuminated object dropped near here shortly after 8 p. m. Tuesday, then burned for about 20 minutes.
An air-ground search for over seven hours yesterday failed to disclose any sign of a downed plane in the heavily-wooded area. Nor did a check of regional airports reveal any over-due flight.
With State police from Milford, deputy game wardens and State forestry rangers combing a wide radius of the fire tower atop Dancing Ridge, and three planes hovering overhead spot checking the dense woodlands, practically every inch of land was covered to no apparent avail.
The episode started about 8:10 p. m. Tuesday when Mrs. Charles LaBar stepped on the front porch of her home on the Easton Anglers Association property, saw a fiery object drop earthward from the south, hit the ground and fire smolder over the area. She said it did not appear to be a meteor.
Summoning her husband, caretaker for the property, and son Robert, 19, the three all attest to the flames. LaBar and son drove to the fire tower a mile away where they climbed the 60-foot ladder. There, they told police, they saw the fire burn out at about 8:30.
Meanwhile Mrs. LaBar said smoldering embers dropped in the front yard as though wind-blown from the section where the fire started.
LaBar phoned Milford State police who immediately sent out a teletype to learn if a plane was overdue at any airport in the section. Yesterday morning, without information of any such downed craft, police joined woodsmen at the tower where the search started.
LaBar and W. E. Jagger, forest inspector from Edgemere, Pike County boarded a plane at East Stroudsburg Airport with Hal Hamlen, owner, and the trio began a systematic aerial search of the section spotted by LaBar. The results were negative.
Meanwhile a plane of the Civil Air Patrol left the airport at Port Jervis, N. Y., with Gerald Blitz at the controls.

Tax Writers Vote To Ease
Method Of Making Payments

Washington (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee agreed yesterday to relieve about one million individuals from making quarterly income tax payments in advance.
But the committee decided to require large corporations, for the first time, to make advance payments.
The decisions came as the committee neared the end of section-by-section action on an 800-page general overhaul of tax laws. The committee is expected to complete preliminary action today on the mammoth project and send the bill to the House floor late next week.
For individuals subject to withholding taxes, the committee voted to require advance estimates of income, and quarterly payments in advance, only from single persons making more than $5,000 a year and from married couples filing a joint return and making more than $10,000.
For those not subject to withholding, the committee voted to require estimates and payments only from persons expecting to make $400 in addition to the exemption of $600 for the taxpayer and each dependent.
The requirement for advance payment of some corporation taxes would apply only to firms with a tax bill of more than $50,000. Authorities said more than 90 per cent of corporations would not be affected. But those which would be affected pay more than 90 per cent of all corporate income taxes.
Under present law, corporations in 1955 will pay 90 per cent of their taxes on 1954 income in each of two quarterly payments due in March and June. Under the new proposal, they would begin in 1955 paying an increasingly larger share of the tax in advance until by 1960 their tax payments would be spread in four equal quarterly installments with half the tax paid in advance.
Meantime Democrats mapped a drive for further personal income tax reductions this year and a high Republican source said mounting pressures probably will cause the Eisenhower administration to go along with some cuts.

Roosevelt Must Pay Family
$1625 Monthly

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — James Roosevelt, a judge ruled yesterday, must pay $1,625 a month temporary support to the wife who accuses him of adultery with 12 women.
It's not quite half the $3,500 a month Mrs. Romelle Roosevelt had demanded pending trial of the couple's sensational separate maintenance suits.
Until the trial, in perhaps eight months, Superior Judge Kurtz Kauffman decreed Roosevelt must pay his wife:
A sum of $850 a month for her support.
An additional $150 for each of their three children—a total of $450.
The children's school tuition of $135 a month.
Attorney fees of $3,500, of which $2,000 is payable immediately and the balance within 90 days, and $850 court costs, payable in 90 days.
The requirement for advance payment of some corporation taxes would apply only to firms with a tax bill of more than $50,000. Authorities said more than 90 per cent of corporations would not be affected. But those which would be affected pay more than 90 per cent of all corporate income taxes.

Fight Develops

Boston (AP) — Battle lines were drawn yesterday for a no-holds-barred fight between New York financier Patrick B. McGinnis, and Boston banker-industrialist Frederick C. Dumaine Jr. for control of the half-million-dollar New Haven Railroad.
McGinnis fired the opening salvo by naming an anti-management slate of 21 directors to be voted on at the annual stockholders' meeting in New Haven, Conn., April 14.

Geneva Talks
Not Aimed At
Honoring Reds

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said last night Communist China will be brought "to account before the bar of world opinion" at the Geneva peace conference.
In a nationwide radio-television address, Dulles dismissed as "without basis" any fear that agreement to the April 26 meeting implies diplomatic recognition of Red China. The Chinese Communists, at Russia's urging, will be seated at the Geneva conference, which will discuss the future of Korea and seek to attain peace in Indochina.
Dulles assailed critics who have contended the seating of Red China at Geneva means the opening wedge toward diplomatic recognition of the Peiping regime.
Such criticism, Dulles said, tends to give the Communists "a success which they could not win at Berlin."
"The Communist regime will not come to Geneva to be honored by us, but rather to account before the bar of world opinion," he said.
The secretary said this was made clear in the Big Four agreement at Berlin last Thursday which proposed the Asiatic peace conference at Geneva in Switzerland.
In his prepared speech, broadcast in 13 languages to the Communist and non-Communist world, Dulles acknowledged there is "some confusion" in the United States about what actually happened in Berlin.
"I do not wholly exclude the idea," he said, "that the Soviet Union might in fact want peace in Asia."
"We can hope so and we shall see. In the meantime we shall keep on our guard."
"There is, however, no reason why we should refuse to seek peacefully the results we want merely because of fear we will be outmaneuvered at the conference table."
"No informed observers believe that we were outmaneuvered at Berlin."
"We need not, out of fright, lay down the tools of diplomacy and the possibilities which they provide. Our case is no so poor, and our capacity so low, that our nation must seek security by sulking in its tent."
Dulles said the month-long meeting with Russia's V. M. Molotov achieved two results "which will profoundly influence the future."
One — Molotov was forced to "show Russia's hand" in Europe, demonstrating for all to see that the Soviets want to hold fast to everything they have and "to grab some more."
Two — Molotov was "brought... to accept" an agreement spelling out United States refusal to recognize Red China but only to deal with it "where occasion requires."

Ike Approves
Pay Hike For U.S. Employees

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower yesterday approved a plan for upward wage adjustment for the 2,350,000 federal civilian workers. It is estimated to cost 350 million dollars a year.
The President's approval of the plan was announced in a White House statement.
Most of it can not be put into effect without congressional approval through new legislation.
Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission, who discussed the program with the President earlier in the day, is to outline it today to the Senate Civil Service Committee.
Naples, Italy (AP) — American and NATO concern over possible Soviet espionage in this strategic Allied port mounted yesterday with arrival of another Russian ship seeking "extensive repairs."

The new arrival brought to five the number of Soviet ships which have entered harbors along Italy's west coast, where North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations have been engaging in naval maneuvers.
Italian security officers were urged by United States and NATO officials to scrutinize closely the Soviet ships and their crews. An Italian security officer was posted on one Soviet vessel which has been under repair in Naples harbor for over six months.

Wilkes-Barre Watches Fearfully For Signs
Of New Tremors; 'Squeeze' May Continue

Wilkes-Barre (AP) — The population of this hard coal mining center — rocked twice in three days by underground quakes — watched fearfully last night for signs of new tremors.
Wilkes-Barre, a city of 76,000, was hit by earth shocks last Sunday and again Tuesday night with damage to streets, buildings and public utility lines estimated at more than one million dollars.
State Mines Secretary W. J. Clements blamed the jolts on hard coal mine subsidence and said his field investigators informed him they feel "this squeeze may continue for some time."
A mine "squeeze" is the result of disintegration of pillar support. It takes form in an upheaval or depression, mostly depression. It is the same as knocking supports from under a building. When material being crushed offers resistance equal to the crushing force exerted, then all movement will cease.
Mines under the southern section of the city were ordered closed until the exact cause of the underground rumblings and their potentiality can be determined.
Shocks in the section adjacent to the old River Road shortly before midnight Tuesday broke up streets, damaged hundreds of homes, snapped gas and water lines, and exposed electrical connections.
Residents, frightened by the shifting earth, fled their homes, many still in their nightclothes.
Yesterday, emergency crews worked continuously to repair the major damage and rid the five-block-square section of the most serious hazards: leaking gas and high-voltage wires.
The scene adjoined the section which buckled Sunday. Both areas lie over the 400-foot-deep workings of the Woodward Colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Co. And this anthracite mine remained shut, on state order.
Officials of the coal company deny the earth shocks are due to workings they operate, and pointed out they'd make no other comment until they complete their own probe of the tremors.

Naguib Quits;
Vice Premier
Takes Over

Cairo, Egypt, Thursday (AP) — Egypt's first president, Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib, has resigned in the apparent upshot of a struggle for power with his vice-premier, "strong man" Gamal Abdel Nasser.
An official announcement just before dawn today said Nasser is taking over as premier of Egypt and president of the Revolutionary Council, but it said nothing about the presidency of the republic.
Naguib had held all three posts since the monarchy was ended officially last June 18 and was replaced with the proclaimed republic.
Nasser, 35, a lieutenant colonel, long has been regarded as the real power in the revolutionary army group that deposed and exiled King Farouk in June, 1952.

McCarthy Cancels
Hearing As Stevens
Bows To Demands

By Roger D. Greene
Washington (AP) — Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens yesterday bowed to demands by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) in the latter's investigation of alleged Army "Communist coddling"—and today's widely heralded public show-down was called off.
Thus the nation's TV viewers will not see the expected face-to-face encounter between the Wisconsin senator and the Army civilian chief.
In a sudden change of attitude, Stevens agreed not only to give McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee "the names of everyone involved" in a disputed case, but also promised they would be produced as witnesses.
Stevens last week had banned two generals from answering subcommittee subpoenas to testify on the ground that McCarthy's "unfair" and "abusive" investigative tactics were wrecking Army morale and prestige. McCarthy replied that Stevens was a "dupe."
The senator had told one of the Army officers, Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, commanding officer of Camp Kilmer, N. J., and a decorated veteran of the D-Day invasion of Normandy in World War Two—that he was "unfit to wear that uniform." Zwicker had declined to answer some questions about an honorable discharge given to an Army dentist whom McCarthy calls "a Fifth Amendment Communist."
Stevens and McCarthy patched up their bitter, running feud at a two-hour meeting behind closed doors on Capitol Hill this afternoon.
At the end, while Stevens sat in grim-faced silence, Sen. Mundt (R-SD) read newsmen a "memorandum of agreement" setting forth in almost military form what had been decided.
Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the White House had no advance knowledge of the McCarthy-Stevens conference agreement. He said President Eisenhower was advised of it after it came over the White House news ticker.
Mundt said neither Vice President Nixon nor Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California was consulted about it.
Once the conference was over, Stevens brushed aside a barrage of questions from newsmen and walked out without comment.
Later, at the Pentagon, Stevens refused to disclose who initiated the agreement or who arranged the meeting.
Stevens said, however, that when he entered the Capitol Hill session he was "fully prepared" to appear as a witness before the McCarthy subcommittee tomorrow.
He said he is willing to testify "any time they want me," and added:
"I am interested and have been from the start in ferreting out any Communist or subversive influence in the Army. I have worked in that direction and will continue to do so."
In reply to a question, Stevens said he had no intention of resigning his secretaryship as a result of the controversy with McCarthy.
Asked whether it was fair to conclude that the agreement marked a retreat, Stevens replied:
"I do not consider that I am a person who capitulates or retreats."
On the surface, at least, the only apparent concession by McCarthy was that Gen. Zwicker renewed questioning by the subcommittee until Sen. Symington (D-Mo) returns from a trip to Europe.

Eden Says Soviets
Eye Entire Reich

London (AP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said yesterday Russia wants to swallow all of Germany instead of neutralizing it, thereby gaining the whip hand over the whole of Europe and Asia.
Reporting to a packed House of Commons on the recent Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin, Eden said Moscow's principle aim in attaining control is "to secure the withdrawal of the United States from Europe."
"The rest of us would no doubt end up by enjoying the same kind of liberty and security as are the lot of Czechoslovakia and Hungary today," he added.

Third Man
Arrested
In Thefts

A Phillipsburg, N. J., man was arrested yesterday in connection with a string of area burglaries, many of which have been allegedly admitted by two men held in Monroe County jail.
The new development was a surprise which came when Cecil Lawler, 26, and Robert Hutchison, 22, were being taken from Stroudsburg to Easton to face charges there.
While talking to Northampton County Detective Arthur E. Haring and Pfc. Harold Schaefer, the two involved a third man.
He was listed as Nelson Ira Andrews, 25, of 18 Market St., Phillipsburg, a machine operator who is married and has two children, but is separated from his wife. (Still another suspect, William Dunlap, was named shortly after the case broke.)
Police took Hutchison and Lawler before Justice of the Peace Joseph Paccioli, Bethlehem RD1, where they pleaded not guilty to charges of burglary.
Next stop was the office of Alderman Carl Pickel Jr., Easton, where they pleaded not guilty to charges that they burglarized a dairy bar, social club and gas station.
Police then took the two to the district attorney's office at the county courthouse in Easton for further questioning.
New statements were taken from Hutchison and Lawler. The changes from previous statements was mostly that Hutchison said he wasn't involved in as many burglaries as he had previously admitted, but that Andrews was present on many of them, according to Det. Haring.
Police left their prisoners at Northampton County prison and went to Phillipsburg after Andrews. They located him in his second floor apartment there and took him in custody, aided by Det. Sgt. Jacob Gabino and Det. Deacon of the Phillipsburg force, and a New Jersey State trooper.
Andrews quickly admitted several of the burglaries he was asked about, said Det. Haring.
Arraigned before Phillipsburg Magistrate Francis Maroney, Andrews waived extradition on charges of burglary and larceny.
Taken to the Northampton County courthouse for questioning, he made a statement to Haring and Schaefer, and told of being brought into the burglaries by a William Dunlap, of Easton, now serving a prison sentence in Texas. He was previously implicated by Lawler and Hutchison.
After making the statement Andrews was taken before Justice Paccioli for a hearing. He pleaded guilty to burglary and larceny at the Midway Snack Bar, Easton RD3, the Applegate Cup, Bethlehem RD1.
Det. Haring said he plans to question the three men together this morning to straighten out details in several of the burglaries, then will take them before Alderman Pickel for arraignment on other counts.

The Weather
Cloudy and cool, possibly with some occasional rain or snow today. Friday cloudy and cool, rain or snow likely.

Coal Region Unites Against Unemployment

By Bill Loftus

Philadelphia (AP) — One thing government officials and economists learned during the depression of the 30s was: When a depression hits a certain economic group or region it affects everybody.

The lowered buying power and smaller risk capital available in a depressed area fingers out to other areas and involves them. People in the depressed area can't buy television sets, refrigerators, new cars or homes at the rate of their more prosperous neighbors in another section of the state. And because they can't, the production of these goods elsewhere is affected.

That's why, for the first time, a regional commission of northeastern Pennsylvania leaders has grouped together under the name of the Northeast Pennsylvania Industrial Development Commission, to try to solve the area's unemployment crisis.

"It's a simple matter of economics," says Victor C. Diehm, chairman of the commission. "When we don't build a new home, somebody else doesn't work because we can't buy their building materials."

Diehm and others who have met to consider the situation have suggested to the heads of companies, labor leaders and others a program of development along these lines to solve the situation:

First, revitalize the anthracite industry through a series of steps recommended by the mine operators and union leaders.

Second, look around the area and develop the other mineral resources available for extraction from the earth.

Third, seek out heavy industry—like steel, or auto manufacturing—to take up the slack in employment brought on by the anthracite dip.

Fourth, re-beautify the region. Northeastern Pennsylvania is famous for its production of hard coal and for the huge, unsightly dumps of waste dredged from the earth as part of the mining process. Disposing of these and a general cleanup, would go a long way toward persuading new industry to move into the region, the commission feels.

Finally, at least one member of the commission, Herb Morris, says the region's residents must "get over their defeatist attitude that nothing good is ever going to happen here. We've got to educate them that the worst is over and things are going to get better."

Diehm feels they'll get better as time goes on because "now leaders of the region, and not just one community, have banded together to look at the situation affecting us and others outside the region indirectly—and to try and solve it for ourselves. We're not saying we'll turn down government aid, but we feel that with a little elbow grease on our part and a little hard work all around, we'll pull ourselves up out of this depressed state and regain a favorable position."

Unpopular -- Unreasonable

While taxes of all kinds are unusually unpopular, there is one in the excise category which is now rated as "the most disliked" which people have to pay.

It is the old war-time tax on telephone service that most of us consider a necessity rather than a luxury.

If you'd call your Congressman in Washington to discuss a particularly pressing issue affecting your community, you'd pay 25 per cent of the actual rate to the government in the form of taxes.

Bear in mind that a charge of $1.25 on $5 worth of long distance telephone calls is not imposed by the telephone company, but by the government because Uncle Sam says it's a luxury to transact business with your Congressman or file a complaint with him by telephone.

Telephone service is indispensable to the business and social economy of this country. It is not a luxury item. It is essential to commerce, industry, and social life of the nation. It is of importance to national defense.

The 25 per cent tax on long distance calls is in the highest excise bracket. Though it is a non-luxury item, it is taxed higher than jewelry, furs and cabarets. They're only 20 per cent.

Local telephone service, with a levy of 15 per cent, is taxed higher than fishing equipment, television sets and musical instruments—items which carry a 10 per cent tax. No other utility service carries an excise tax.

This is not a case of battle in behalf of a telephone company. It is a matter which unjustly affects the daily lives of every person.

With Congress considering taxes and possible tax cuts, now is the time to demand an end to one which is without basis in any form of reasoning.

Code For The Road

The American motorist, who so often is an Emily Post as a host but a heel at the wheel, will be asked to "Make Courtesy Your Code of the Road" in a national traffic safety campaign to be launched next Monday.

Operating on the theory that the real solution to the highway safety problem lies in the mind of the individual, the Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee, the National Committee for Traffic Safety, and the National Safety Council, has decided to try to reach the individual's mind while he is at the wheel of his car.

A windshield sticker, a bumper sticker and a card of rules will be used to reach drivers in their travel environment, rather than their better-behaved social or home environment.

Boiled down all this means that safe driving is a moral responsibility and a daily demonstration of decent and moral conduct. A code of the road concept of this responsibility will ask every motorist to:

- Share the road by driving in the proper lane.
- Allow ample clearance when passing.
- Yield the right of way to other drivers, pedestrians.
- Give proper signals for turns, stops.
- Dim headlights when meeting, following vehicles.
- Respect traffic laws, signs, signals, road markings.
- Adjust driving to road, traffic, weather conditions.

No one likes to be told he is impolite. Best way to avoid it is to adopt a road courtesy code and live up to it. Courtesy is contagious. We need an epidemic of courtesy on the highways.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

President Eisenhower's press conferences have been taped for broadcast.

There are predictions of a televised routine in the future, with the entire nation watching and listening via TV. As something of a "vision" ourselves, we shall demand it in the popular video mood.

Secretary—And now ladies and gentlemen that distinguished, that talented, charming and truly great performer, the President of the United States. Let's give him a great big hand.

President—Thank you, thank you very much. I'm very happy to be on this wonderful program of YOURS.

Reporter—It's not our program, it's yours.

President—One gets so confused here.

Reporter—I'm five feet eleven, weigh one hundred and eighty pounds, have light hair and suffer from hypertension. What's my line?

President—I'm the one suffering from hypertension in these conferences. And you're on the wrong program.

Reporter—You now have forty dollars and are nearing the gateway to the jackpot. Do you want to quit and come back in nineteen hundred and fifty-six?

President—Don't worry about nineteen hundred and fifty-six. I'll take it now.

Reporter—Okay. The orchestra will now play a well-known number, "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows." Name that tune!

President—It's "The November Song" by Adlai Stevenson.

Reporter—What do you intend to do about Europe and India-China?

President—I had thought something of sending Marilyn Monroe to both places. She did very well in Korea.

Reporter—Has Mr. Dulles made his complete report to you yet?

President—No. The report is ready but we haven't made up our minds on a sponsor.

Reporter—I wish to make two requests. Will you outline your policy on Italy and then do some bicycle tricks?

President—I can't do any bicycle tricks.

Reporter—Everybody else on TV does!

President—Gentlemen, this is after all, a press conference. Let us have some really deep questions and answers.

All In Union? What? On a TV quiz program?

Reporter—I want to know whether you look for a recession within the next two years and also to ask if you would like your house painted inside and out, a year's supply of golf balls and a completely new wardrobe.

The President—You are confusing this program with "Strike It Rich" or "Welcome Traveler."

Reporter—Would it be possible for you to have Harry Truman at one of these press conferences with you?

President—What for?

Reporter—Every TV show could use a wrestling act.

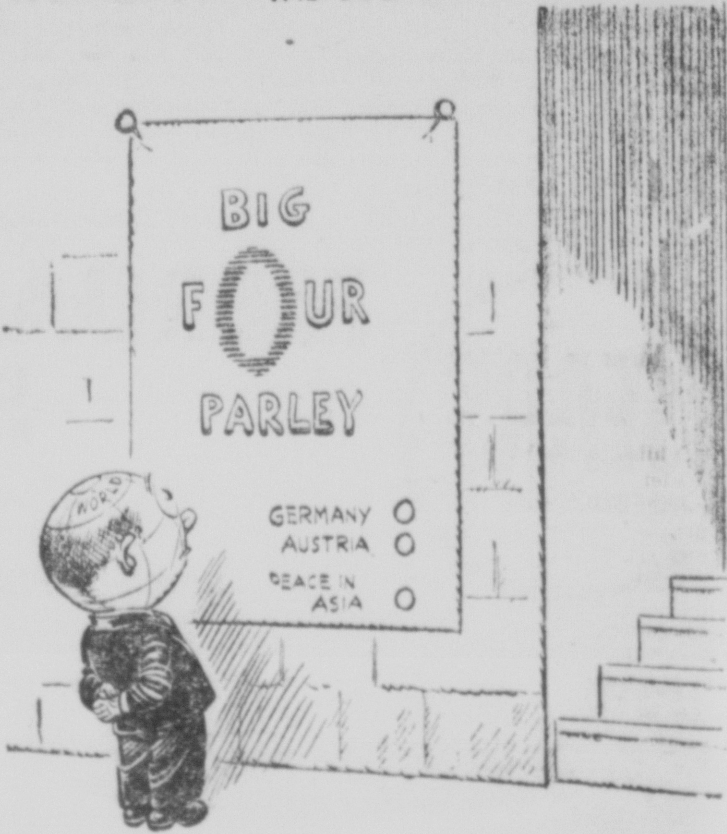

President—That's all, boys! (Backing slowly through an exit under a spotlight.) Good-night Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are.

With a bumper crop of nationwide publicity, Jackie Gleason won the Great American Front Page Sweepstakes in a common galleon. "Jimmy's List" and "Berlin Huddle" threatened at the start, but were never in it after the first furlong: "Economic Crisis," "Scientific Discovery" and "Fate of Europe" were well thought of but quit when challenged and finished behind "Garrow's Crash." Tom Watson, head of International Business Machines, who just celebrated his 80th birthday in harness, is a Painted Post, New York, boy who made good in the city. Painted Post is a little town up in Steuben County near Horseheads, Fresho, and Coopers Plains in that was once deep Injun country.

With Marilyn Monroe in Korea, it is hard to see how Synnman Rhee can any longer doubt that Uncle Sam isn't doing everything he can for the republic. But will the Red Chinese cite Marilyn as an aggressor?

A modern jet fighter-bomber uses about 1,245 pounds of stainless steel—enough to manufacture more than 82,600 kitchen paring knives.

Iron Country Trade With U. S. Takes Big Increase

Washington, — U. S. trade with Iron Curtain countries took a big jump in the third quarter of 1953.

In that (July-August-September) period, the Commerce Department granted 900 export licenses for the shipment of "non-strategic" goods to Soviet empire nations.

Only exception among them was Red China, against whom the all-out embargo was rigidly continued.

Authority for this significant information is Samuel Anderson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for International Affairs. Directly under his jurisdiction is the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, which issues export licenses.

Anderson made his disclosures at a private House Appropriations Committee meeting under close questioning by Representative John Rooney (D, N. Y.).

Anderson also revealed: That in the second quarter of 1953, U. S. imports from Russia and satellite countries, including Manchuria and Outer Mongolia, totaled $11,416,000.

While the sale of American goods to Red China is banned, dollars continue to be smuggled into there.

Russia is pushing a vigorous trade campaign throughout the world. Last year, the Soviets participated in 31 European trade fairs against none by the U. S., and this year the Reds are scheduled to take part in 42 of these important commercial events against only four by this country.

The administration has formulated a new policy on control of trade with Iron Curtain countries. But beyond saying that this new policy is designed to provide "greater flexibility of action", Anderson gave no information about it and committee members did not ask for more.

From the Record — The unpublished stenographic transcript of the discussion with Anderson discloses a number of curious loose ends.

Examples: There is no explanation why he cited only the export licenses granted in the third quarter, although later he furnished the Committee with a chart showing the number of applications that were rejected in each quarter last year. Similarly, he listed American imports from Iron Curtain countries only in the second quarter and none other.

These two revealing charts are as follows:

Rejected Export Licenses:

1st quarter, 468; 2nd quarter 523; 3rd quarter, 185; 4th quarter, 16.

Anderson did not explain the reason for the big drop in rejections in the last two quarters. He merely gave the Committee the above figures. He did the same thing on the second quarter imports from Iron Curtain countries:

Poland, $4,161,000; Russia, $3,184,000; Outer Mongolia, $1,896,000; East Germany, $1,272,000; Hungary, $381,000; Czechoslovakia, $220,000; Manchuria, $203,000; Bulgaria, $75,000; Rumania, $12,000; Albania, $29,000.

Anderson also advised the Committee that U. S. exports to Soviet countries in this same period totaled $253,000 as follows: East Germany $128,000; Poland $49,000; Bulgaria $40,000; Czechoslovakia $29,000; Russia $7,000.

The discussion — Anderson stressed that American trade with the Soviet countries is limited to non-strategic goods.

"What do you mean by that?" demanded Representative Rooney.

"Things like cigarettes and unmanufactured tobacco to East Germany, transmission belts to Czechoslovakia, clothing to Poland and charity goods of various kinds to the other countries," replied Anderson. "During the third quarter last year, we received some 1,100 applications for export licenses to the Soviet bloc. About 200 of them were denied."

"Exactly what is the Commerce Department's policy regarding the shipment of American goods to Russia and its satellites?" asked Rooney.

"It is the policy of the U. S.," said Anderson, "to generally approve the export of non-strategic goods to Russia and its European satellites, except where a particular transaction is viewed as having adverse net impact upon the security of the free world."

"What about that butter proposition," continued Rooney. "Was your rejection flat and final?"

"Yes, it was," asserted Anderson. "Our reason was the price proposed by the exporter. That was the world market price, which is much lower than our domestic support price."

Rooney expressed concern over the reduction of funds in the new budget for control of export trade.

"Seems to me you are taking a risk in doing that," he argued. "That sort of economizing may be shortsighted in that it will allow strategic materials to get through to the Iron Curtain."

"Frankly, the extent to which controls have already been relaxed does involve some risk," admitted Anderson. "But it is a risk that we take knowingly. Unquestionably, it's a risk that would be reduced if we required a greater number of export transactions to be reviewed and licensed...."

The matter of trade control has been thoroughly reviewed by the Administration and a new general policy has been formulated. This new policy permits a greater flexibility of action, but it does not make or contemplate drastic changes."

George Sokolsky Says...

Industry Shifts To South Logical; Social Results Cannot Be Ignored

The Run-Away Industry

The haters' strike in Norwalk, Connecticut, raises an issue which plagues not only industry and labor unions but also many cities and towns, particularly the one-industry towns which can be reduced to villages or to ghosts by the removal of the bread-giving industry.

There are so many sides to the "Run-Away Industry" problem that the outsider reaches a conclusion on the subject with great difficulty. I shall state them with objectivity:

1. An industry finds that because of its geographical location, the shift of population in the country, competition from lower wages, or lower local tax, or lower transportation rates areas, it is no longer profitable to continue to operate where it is. It therefore wishes to move elsewhere.

The South and Southwest are now regarded by industrialists as preferred areas for manufacturing certain types of goods, particularly textiles. It is more efficient to erect a new plant in these areas than to continue in the old plant.

The reason for this are not limited to the lower scale of wages or to the lack of trade unions, because wages tend in time to equalize and unions fight for membership wherever mills and factories exist. Cheaper transportation costs, lower tax rates, superior weather conditions, cheaper power, and other factors become important in a competitive situation.

2. The labor union view is that hardships are created by the removal of plants, affecting entire families. Even if the company makes provision for workers to follow the plant to a new location, the family may find removal difficult. Children have to be taken out of schools, perhaps at the wrong time from an educational standpoint or to schools of inferior quality. Homes may have to be sold at considerable loss.

Church connections are important to some. The uprooting of long-established families may produce unfavorable social conditions.

The labor union view is that generally the run-away plant leaves for the benefit of a lower wage scale.

3. The local public view is that a long-established town, with the usual social and economic facilities developed over a period of decades or, in some cases, centuries, may be abandoned or reduced to a ghost-town, causing hardships not only for those affiliated with the industries but those supplying services. The destruction of such facilities is an economic waste and can lead to social disturbances as middle-class, self-employed persons are reduced to poverty and perhaps dependence. It's impossible in case of such abandonment for storekeepers to dispose of their losses except at a tragic loss or even at all. Doctors, lawyers, school-teachers, morticians, the clergy are all affected. The town's income from taxes is reduced.

This then is the complex of problems when a plant leaves a town and while it does occur, at times, that a new plant may come in or that the citizens unite to make facilities available for a new industry, the fact has to be accepted that an abandoned town is not often revived. This tendency has been continuous since the Civil War period, during the great railroad building era, when industries moved closer to the railroad stations, abandoning more remote locations. Such shifts were made when coal-power replaced water-power and the process was reversed when hydroelectric-power became cheaper than coal-power. Industry generally locates itself for more efficient production. A current trend is the location of steel plants closer to the seaboard to take advantage of imports of iron ore from abroad.

It is impossible to believe that so complicated a problem can only be dealt with on a class war basis and that the strike is the proper tool for its solution. Essentially it is a problem in the growth of the United States, in the shift of population, in the degree that human skills, and what used to be called the skilled labor market, are not very important. It has to do with the structure of American society, particularly the uprooting of children from an environment that has become normal to them and in which social pressures are of a beneficial nature.

Two conclusions may be reached:

1. The trend to move plants to the South and Southwest will continue because it is logical.

2. The social consequences of abandoned areas, particularly in New England, cannot be ignored without disaster to the country.

Dilworth Bounces Back Into Race For Party's Nomination

Chances Hinge On Democratic Unity Efforts

By Lee Linder

Philadelphia (AP) — Richardson Dilworth bounced back into the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination yesterday but his chances hinged on "unity efforts" within the Philadelphia party machine.

District attorney in the state's largest city, Dilworth was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate four years ago when Republican Gov. John S. Fine was elected.

Dilworth has admitted his desire to seek the governor's seat again—but he "withdrew" last week when the battle to amend Philadelphia's two-year-old city charter threatened to split the party in two.

Yesterday, despite several brawling, name-calling statements, the charter battle ended—at least until next year. Six Democratic city councilmen announced they would not support amendments which Mayor Joseph S. Clark Jr. described would "wreck the good government the Democrats pledged they would give Philadelphia."

Then Clark, in a hurriedly-called news conference with Dilworth sitting non-committally by his side, declared he would go to Harrisburg for Friday's meeting of the Democratic State Committee "prepared to push for the slating of Mr. Dilworth."

Dilworth said nothing, nor would he amplify an earlier statement in which he said "only a miracle" could get him back in the gubernatorial race.

The D. A. had made the comment before the charter fight had been resolved.

Clark said: "My toughest job now is to convince Dilworth to make the race."

Meanwhile, the names of three other possible candidates remained in the picture. But there was no strong organized support for any of them.

They are: Judge Warren K. Hess of Berks County, State Sen. George M. Leader of York County and Judge Thomas L. Hoban of Lackawanna County.

And some Democratic leaders in Philadelphia, who declined to be identified, said former U. S. Sen. Francis J. Myers also should not be counted out. But friends of Myers said he was doing too well in his private law practice to go back into active politics.

There were a few other names mentioned—Coroner William McClelland of Allegheny County and State Sen. John H. Dent of Westmoreland County—but nothing much in the way of support. Dent was the party's gubernatorial candidate eight years ago when he was defeated by James Duff, now U. S. senator.

Child Born To Girl, 13, In Carolina

Franklin, N. C. (AP) — A young mountain girl, a bride at 13, was a mother yesterday—only a week before her 14th birthday.

"I'm happy about it all," said tiny Mrs. Judy Ann Buckner. The young mother, who weighs only about 60 pounds, gave birth Tuesday to a five-pound daughter, Barbara Ann.

Attendants at the Angel Clinic here said both the mother and the baby were in good condition.

The mother, the former Judy Ann Russell, lives in the Buck Creek section, a remote mountain community near Highlands, N. C. She was married last March 12 to Kenneth Buckner, 27-year-old Navy veteran who's been working since then as a laborer in a Pontiac, Mich., automobile plant. He returned home recently when his company laid off a number of workers.

The two were married in Waltham, S. C., only nine days after Judy's 13th birthday. She'll be 14 next Wednesday.

Fichtmann Will Filed For Probate

A $12,000 estate was left by Mrs. Jennie Fichtmann, 76, Pocono Township, according to wills probated yesterday at the office of Register Floyd Butz.

Mrs. Fichtmann died Feb. 23. The petition for letters testamentary estimated personal property at $12,000. The will ordered that a diamond ring and an earring be given a daughter, Ethel Bauman, and $4,000 to another daughter, Natalie Sobek. The rest of the estate was to be divided equally between the daughters, the will said.

A small estate was left for the wife and four children of Charles O. Frable, 72, Kunkletown RD1, who died Oct. 24.

A petition for letters of administration listed these heirs: his wife, Beulah, 56 E. Brown St., East Stroudsburg; and children, Clair B. and Eva P. Frable, both of Stroudsburg Star Route, Claude F. Reiders, and Dollie A., Washington, D. C.

Walter E. Murphy, 57, Effort, who died Feb. 17, left all of his small estate in personal property to his wife, Ida, according to another petition for letters testamentary.

GOP Harmony Moves Face Two Problems

By Charles A. Welsh

Philadelphia (AP) — Republican leaders striving for complete harmony in advance of the May 18 primary yesterday encountered two new problems:

One—Selection of a primary campaign chairman, a post which could be a major factor in the election of a GOP state chairman in June.

Two—A declaration by Internal Affairs Secretary William S. Livingston Jr. of Somerset that he will file nominating papers for a fifth term.

Livengood, by-passed in the slate-making conferences as well as the ticket selections, said he will oppose Mrs. Gaynelle Dixon of Butler, who has the endorsement of some GOP leaders.

The campaign chairmanship became a prime political topic after the annual Pennsylvania Manufacturers Assn. dinner which once again provided an informal meeting place for Republican leaders and workers from all sections of the state.

A Republican leader at the very highest level told the Associated Press Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood has turned thumbs down on the idea of naming Franklin H. Lichtenwalter to direct his campaign.

This leader was not willing to permit use of his name in this connection, but he is in position to be completely informed on such developments.

The source indicated that Lichtenwalter had been advised of the decision.

Lichtenwalter had confirmed Tuesday—at a time when the campaign chairmanship had appeared signed, sealed and ready for delivery to him—that he resigned some days ago as general manager of the Pennsylvania Electric Assn.

Wood could not be reached for comment on the campaign chairmanship.

However, one close associate of Wood, GOP Chairman Fred C. Peters of Montgomery County, said emphatically that Lichtenwalter is "just as much under consideration as anybody. We haven't made a decision."

Who might be the choice? One name mentioned by two different sources was that of Otto F. Messner of Lancaster County, the state secretary of revenue. Asked about the prospects for Messner, Peters used the same words he had applied to Lichtenwalter: "He's just as much under consideration as anybody. We haven't made a decision."

Once-Lucrative Maple Syrup Industry Tapers Off To Dribble In Area Around Newfoundland

Newfoundland — Maple syrup production, once one of this area's big enterprises on the economic market, has slowed down to a dribble in the market pan this year.

Whereas, some years ago, local farmers "tapped" as high as 1500 to 2000 trees on their own land, this year's activity has been limited to only one or two locations with less than a fourth of that number tapped.

The procedure for making maple syrup is a long and tedious one. Furthermore, it has grown into a costly one, farmers say.

Both these reasons—and a lack of qualified help—have cut an industrial sideline down to a mere means of supplementing the family larder.

The case of long time, well-known area farmer Friend Uhl is a fair example of the curtailment the operations have gone through. Last year, during the maple syrup-sugar season, Uhl and his son tapped a total of 1800 trees. These tapplings produced 280 gallons of syrup.

For their reward, Uhl and his son collected five dollars per gallon, or $1400.

This year Uhl plans to tap no trees at all. Prime reason for the decision is the fact that his son has been called into service. Other major maple syrup producers during past years have also cut down on operations for the current year, for other reasons. Some say the cost of labor is too high and that trained personnel is hard to come by.

Others indicate that the income is not on a par with the amount of time and effort (and patience) consumed.

One man, Bruce Banks, has tapped 200 trees so far this year in the area. Banks is now in the process of "boiling down" the sap from the trees. He got 33 gallons of syrup last year.

Moss Shiffer, who was discouraged by results of his tapping last year, still hasn't tapped any trees yet this year.

During last year's "poor season," Shiffer tapped 300 trees; got only 30 gallons of syrup for his trouble. During "good seasons," these same 300 trees yielded as high as 130 gallons, Shiffer said.

Isaac Martin has tapped 120 trees near here so far this year; is also beginning to "boil down" sap from the trees.

Years ago, one organization located in this area tapped as high as 1500 trees each year. Such widespread and large-scale production has faded from the scene now, however.

Nearly all farmers in the area, tap "a few trees," local residents report. Most of them do it purely for their own use, they say.

It takes about a barrel of sap or "sugar water" to make one gallon of good-grade maple syrup.

Sometimes the sugar maple trees are referred to as "sugar bushes." The buckets used to catch the dripping sap are called "keelers" and the devices used to funnel the sap into the keelers are called "spiles" or spouts.

The State Department of Agriculture predicted this week that rain and cool weather would "show the initial flow of sap." Yesterday's warmer weather was expected to make everything easier.

The maple sugar or syrup season usually begins during the latter days of February and continues through into late March, depending largely on weather conditions.

Maple products in the State last year totaled 14,000 pounds of sugar and 84,000 gallons of syrup. Both totals were below 1952 levels.

Season began about Feb. 24 last year; ended on March 30, according to the State.

Tax Deadline Still March 15

March 15 and not April 15 is the deadline for filing 1953 income tax returns, Joseph J. Lawler, district director of internal revenue, stressed yesterday.

Mr. Lawler said that due to recent news articles out of Washington indicating that the House Ways and Means committee is considering a proposal to advance the due date of an income tax return to April 15, some taxpayers may become confused and delay the filing of their returns.

The director added that a calen-

Congregation To Discuss Building Plans

Members of the Brodheadsville-Hamilton Joint Lutheran-Evangelical and Reformed churches will meet Sunday night to discuss building plans.

Present plans by the two church groups call for an addition to the present Union Church at Brodheadsville.

The addition would consist of four rooms to be used primarily for Sunday School housing, a basement with kitchen facilities and lavatories.

The Sunday night meeting will be held at the Union Church building in Brodheadsville, according to Rev. Adan Bohner, Evangelical and Reformed pastor, and Rev. John B. Bergstresser, Hamilton Lutheran pastor.

Discussions of possible building plans have been carried on at most recent meetings of the two congregational groups.

During the Sunday night meeting, members hope to get an estimate of the potential cost of the building addition.

About 20 million of 160 million Americans live on farms.

Industrial Students To Visit Plant

Stroudsburg High School boys interested in industrial engineering and shop training will pay a visit to Tru-Matic Machine and Tool Co. Friday afternoon.

The field trip is part of a regularly-scheduled activity by industrial arts students at the school each Friday.

On alternate weeks, the students hear an address by a leading industry official. The speeches are set up in cooperation with the Industrial Management Club of Monroe County.

The club's spokesmen visit schools in both boroughs, giving students an insight into management problems in industry.

Last week's speaker at Stroudsburg High School was Edward Telling, Line Material Industrial engineer who stressed the importance of a well-balanced training curriculum in training for employment by industry.

Every other week—on days not scheduled for lectures—the group is slated to visit a county industry. When possible the field trips are arranged to supplement the lecture for the previous week.

The lecture-field trip program is an addition to Stroudsburg High School's "work experience program." This program, initiated on a full-time basis last year, puts qualified students into part-time afternoon jobs in local businesses and industry.

The students are trained for possible jobs while attending school, receiving credit for satisfactory completion of the work experience course.

Director of the over-all program is Robert Hawk who works in close cooperation with other school officials.

Since World War II, France has rebuilt 5,000 bridges, destroyed in the conflict, but has 2,550 to go before all replacements are made.

HONOR STUDENTS. These Stroudsburg junior high students have been named to membership in the Junior National Honor Society. Included in the group, not in order, are the following: Alta DeVivo, Jeanne Fritz, Rosalyn Shellenberger, Sandra Peilly, James Welsh, Timothy Barnes, Earl Budge, Camille Buzzard, Barbara Hilliard, Eleanor Kulp, Arthur Kushner, Dorothy Neipert, Lois Young, Robert Kitchen, Judy Kohn, Dorothy May, Catherine Vogt, Pat Cziiffer, Carole Diedine, John Durkee, Abbie Jane Frisbie, Barbara LaBar, Donald Bush, Madeline Damsky, Susan Shafer, Jack Moore, John Schoonover, Virginia Adams, Mary Beth Knepp, Franklin Haigh, John Heller, William Kegley, Helen Marie Silver, Christine Clark.

Truck, Car Collide At Water Gap

Delaware Water Gap. Damages totaled about $300 early Tuesday when a truck collided with a car at 3:15 a.m. at the intersection of Routes 611 and 402.

Police Chief Fred Decker said Thomas V. Frank, Fairport, N. Y., was returning home, and slowed down to make a left turn off Route 611. Frank turned on his directional signal, Decker said.

Following immediately behind was a truck operated by Malcolm T. Frey, Forty Fort. Decker said Frey swung out to avoid a collision when the car slowed down for the turn, veered to the left, then back, and collided with the left front of the car.

There were no injuries, the chief said.

Ballantine Beer watches your belt-line ...with fewer calories than any other leading beer

The beers of today... practically all of them... are lower in calories than they once were. None contains starch, and as for sugar, there's not more than a negligible trace in any of them.

Still, if you're counting up your calorie quota, you'll be happy to know that laboratory tests show Ballantine has fewer calories than any other leading beer.

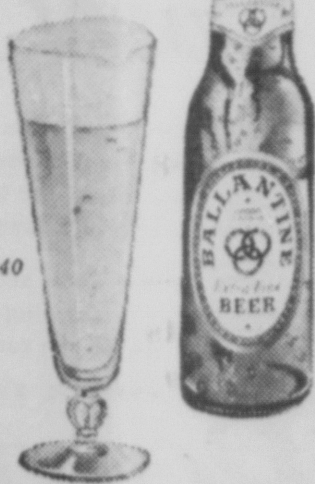

But Ballantine not only watches your beltline. Ballantine Beer is brewed to the American taste as well as to the American figure.

Ballantine Beer is the product of 114 years of brewing experience. Brewed from nature's finest barley malt and hops, it has the same full flavor and fine character that have made it one of America's largest-selling beers.

Next time, ask the man for Ballantine—the low-calorie beer with the flavor that chill can't kill!

P. Ballantine & Sons, Newark, N. J.

Community Chorus President Merely Another Bit Player In 'Emperor's New Clothes'

You may be president of the Community Chorus, but on stage you're just "one of the crowd."

Leastwise that's the way it goes with Wilbur Reinhart. Reinhart has been a member of the chorus for two years.

This year he was elected president by his fellow members. On Friday night, however, when the brand new musical comedy "The Emperor's New Clothes" hits the thespian boards for the first time, Reinhart will be billed as a "walk-on."

Personally he's quite happy with the whole thing. Partly because he regards the musical very highly and partly because he's happy to be doing a bit part for the second straight year.

During last year's production of "Down In The Valley," Reinhart was one of the townspeople, too.

When asked last night what part he would play in this year's production, Reinhart replied instantly:

"Well, I'm not the emperor," thereby joining a vast majority of his friends in both boroughs who have been busy denying the same question during the past two weeks.

Mystery surrounds the identity of the man who is to play "The Emperor." Thus far denials have been issued by two prominent residents of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and by an unidentified young man with a diapered middle.

Others (not appearing in print) have also emphatically denied their possible association with the role. Reinhart—one of the partners in the Globe Furniture Co., East Stroudsburg—has a fondness for both singing and music. The latter interest extends to almost all varieties, he says, although he admits that "pop" he can take only "in limited quantity."

He's a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and State Teachers College; now lives at 356 Broadhead Ave., with his wife, Marian and their two boys.

"The Emperor's New Clothes," he says, is topflight entertainment. "I'd even go so far as to say that it's mighty fine and it's probably something the likes of which the two towns have never before experienced."

The Harry Simeone-Jay Johnson musicomedie also has more than its fair share of good tunes, Reinhart believes.

"In my humble opinion as a lay listener to popular music, I'd say there are one or two tunes in the show that could easily be classified as hits in any show," he continues.

One of these potential "hit tunes," he says is the "lovely, lyrical thing called 'Mother of Ono.' Another is a nursery rhyme called 'Happiness Lane.'"

These two songs, and others from the show, Reinhart expects to make a lasting impression on the minds of those who see the show.

Regardless of whether they make an appearance on the juke boxes, they'll still be whistled and hummed wherever "Emperor's New Clothes" audience members happen to be, he feels.

Tickets for the General Hospital Auxiliary-sponsored show are now on sale. Two performances — on Friday and Saturday nights — will be given.

Pope Still Too Feeble To Allow X-Ray Studies

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Pius XII still was too feeble yesterday to permit X-rays that could diagnose more fully the ailment which has sapped his strength dangerously for a month.

The head of the Roman Catholic Church approached his 78th birthday next Tuesday too weak to say mass. Yesterday, as he has for some time, he heard mass said at a portable altar near his bedside by one of his private secretaries.

Vatican sources said the Pope had a "fairly restful night," but reiterated Tuesday's official caution that he faces a long period of medical attention and rest.

A Vatican spokesman said the Pope's ailment "must be presumed to be gastritis until X-rays can be taken."

Church Men To Work On Parking Area

One of the best attended meetings of the Brotherhood of St. John's Lutheran Church was held Tuesday night in the social rooms. Prior to the meeting the men inspected the recently erected building and the refurbished and renovated church school rooms.

During the business session, over which Parke Kunkle presided, it was decided to start work soon on the completion of the parking space. A committee consisting of H. L. Keiper Jr., Henry G. Tucker and Charles Widmer was named to arrange for the fill to be placed in it.

Several new members were enrolled. H. L. Keiper Jr. presented the topic on the theme: "The Congregation and the Community." He emphasized how pastor and members should take an active part in the community affairs.

A discussion was conducted on the theme "The Apostles' Creed," with Parke Kunkle as moderator. The president appointed the following ushers to serve during March:

Mornings, Vernon Ellenberger, Lenix Reid, J. B. Dunkelberger, Russell W. Kern; evenings, Harry Bolch, Richard Shook, Jack Muehlhan and Walter Weber; Wednesday Lenten service, Edward Wagner, Joseph W. Barnes, John Kitchen and Woodrow Fisher.

The next meeting will be held after Lenten service on the fourth Wednesday of March. A social hour followed when refreshments were served by the following committee: Parke Kunkle, Richard Shook and Dr. P. N. Wohlsein.

Art Entries Sought For Juried Show

All artists living within a 50-mile radius of Scranton are invited to submit work for the Everhart Museum's juried art show this year. Four classes of work are eligible for competition in the show, according to Everhart officials.

Paintings in oil, watercolor or gouache, prints and sculpture will be accepted. Each artist is allowed to submit two original works.

A separate entry blank is required for each work and a non-refundable fee is charged. Entry slips may be obtained from the museum.

All entries must be framed and the minimum size of canvas is 16 by 20 inches; maximum, 30 by 36 inches.

Entries are to be delivered to the Everhart Museum, Scranton, Pa., during the week of March 21. Shipments are to be sent prepaid or delivered in person during hours described on an explanatory brochure.

Among the groups invited to participate are the local Pocono Mountains Artists Group, the State Belt Guild and the Wayne County Art Alliance.

No cash prizes are awarded in the Everhart show, but merit awards will be made. A sum will be set aside for the purchase of works to be added to the museum's collection.

Charles Becomes Charlotte

Copenhagen, Denmark (AP) — Another young American is looking forward to a new life at home as a woman after undergoing a series of hormone injections and operations under the direction of Danish doctors.

Charlotte McLeod, 28, a former New Orleans, La. bookkeeper, arrived here last winter as Charles McLeod.

Charlotte described the last 12 months as "just one year in hell" and blamed the trouble on "the bad publicity of a recent similar case." Charlotte said plans were made for a long time to come to Copenhagen—even before the Christine Jorgensen case.

Christine, a former American GI is now in the United States appearing at night clubs after treatment in Denmark.

Riss Accused Of Cheating On Tax Returns

Washington (AP) — A railroad attorney testified yesterday that a Kansas City trucking firm, Riss & Co., had "cheated" on its income tax returns.

Riss and 24 smaller truck concerns are asking the Interstate Commerce Commission for permanent authority to haul explosives over more American highways.

Urging the ICC to deny this request, rail lawyer Amos M. Matthews said Riss had carried its "many" fines for highway violations as operating expenses.

This handling of fines in book-keeping, he declared, would mean the firm had "cheated" in income tax payments, since fines are not deductible.

The railroads are opposing the truck firms, which compete with them for explosive hauls.

The record, said Matthews, shows that Riss drivers had:

Failed to stop at railroad crossings, failed to handle explosives properly, violated hours and services regulations, left vehicles unattended for hours, operated without police escorts, broken through red lights and stop signs, and driven overloaded trucks.

Others opposing the trucks yesterday, chiefly on the ground that their cargo is an extreme accident hazard, included Harrington Adams for Pennsylvania and J. D. Wright for Indiana.

Company Cuts Gas Prices In Coal Region

Philadelphia (AP) — The Atlantic Refining Co. announced that it has reduced its tankwagon prices on gasoline 2 cents a gallon to meet competition in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area.

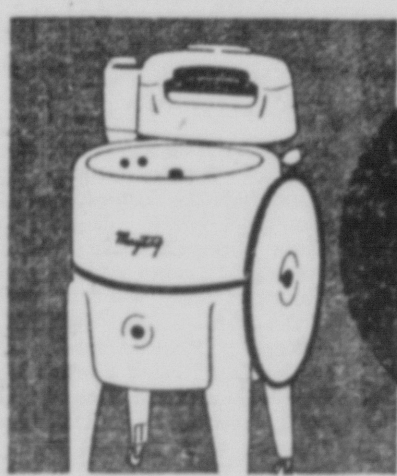

A spokesman said Atlantic regular gas now was selling at 13.4 cents per gallon, while the company's premium gasoline was listed at 15.9 a gallon. The price reduction was made to meet competition, the spokesman said.

The last gasoline price war in this area saw prices drop to as low as 4 and 5 cents a gallon at tankwagon levels. The spokesman said he couldn't foresee how far the price might drop in the current competition.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Some days stories fall into neat patterns and a column writes itself. Other days things are as jumbled as a tangled ball of yarn with no end to take hold of—and then you have to yell for help.

Well, it was a confusing day. There's chicken pox in Paradise so they can't have their box social—and they served cherry pie a la mode in shoe boxes at the Christian party because it was a shoe party on Washington's Birthday—you see what I mean?

But there's more—there was Jim Gaffney still out of breath from climbing the fire tower to look for possible plane wreckage—but it was the Dancing Ridge tower which doesn't sound hard to climb and Les Carlton boasting that he had found a plane in a swamp when he went out looking for it.

Well, it's no wonder I seized on Randy's idea for a column, which was to the effect that every age has its superstitions. Currently the "flying saucer" has been replacing the Loch Ness monster or whatever.

Which makes it all the more remarkable that nobody thought to identify Jim's missing plane with a disintegrating flying saucer of sorts. In fact the AP came right out and called it a "fireball"—which takes you back to your childhood superstitions of hoop snakes and lightning running along the ground.

I agree that fireballs are much cooler-sounding than saucers in our swamps. They sound more like spit-balls than atom bombs.

Tomorrow, maybe, we'll get this unraveled.

Shoe Party Novel Program At Class Meeting

An original "Shoe Party" followed the meeting of the Christian Pals Class of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church this week. She said that in the early 19th century the shoemaker's shop was a center of activity where men met to discuss politics, religion and other subjects. Mrs. Fetherman wore a pair of shoes from the Gay Nineties period, loaned to her by Mrs. F. L. Stackhouse.

The refreshments were served in shoe boxes, carrying out the party theme. The contents, however, were in the George Washington tradition—cherry pie, but with ice cream.

The meeting opened on a serious note with Mrs. Harold Stiff leading the devotions, based on the theme of "Brotherhood." Mrs. Merlin Rutt, president, announced that the March meeting would be postponed until the 29th, because of the Community Concert on the regular meeting date.

Book Review Is Given For Church Women

The inspiration, discouragements, problems and setbacks of mission work around the world at the present time were brought out in a review of Samuel Moffatt's book, "Where'er the Sun" given by Mrs. Jonas T. May at the meeting of the Women's Association of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church last night.

Mrs. May illustrated her talk with examples of courage and sacrifice made by Christian natives in the countries which Moffatt covered: the Christian work camps in Thailand; China where communism is the fourth wave to attempt to destroy Christianity; the Philippines where the chain reaction of Laubach's program has spread through out the islands and Japan; the powder keg of Africa where natives have been dispossessed; the persecution of Protestants in South America; and the great need of evangelical Christianity at home.

Mrs. Theodore Moore, secretary of Christian Education and Action, reviewed current legislative matters before the Congress. The devotions were led by Mrs. John Sinclair, secretary of stewardship and spiritual life. Holiday calendars were received by Mrs. Arlington W. Williams.

Mrs. John Wellington, president, announced plans for the World Day of Prayer on March 5. Mrs. Frank Grimm presented the program and presented the year-book of programs for the coming year.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated for Washington's Birthday by the Dorcas Circle with Mrs. Ernest T. Campbell and Mrs. Edgar Powell presiding at the tea table.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Beatrice Gorgy's love of beauty is perhaps the outstanding facet of her personality. It is also responsible for having led her into numerous hobbies and pursuits that have earned her the reputation of being not the jack, but the master, of all trades. There was a time when she painted as a pastime, but as she puts it, "I like to go on to new things. I don't care for repetition and copying." So, during a long illness, she turned to crocheting. A bedspread was the result. Of late, however, she has turned to needlepoint, but now that her eight antique rosewood chairs are re-covered, it is difficult to say where her interests will lead.

BEATRICE GORGY

Beatrice was born in Lopez, Sullivan County, Pa., to James Gorgy, formerly of Albrightsville, and his wife, Catharine Altmore of Long Pond. For a year, prior to the family's transition from this state to Jennington, West Va., the mother and children returned to this locality, to await word that their new home was in readiness.

Mr. Gorgy had been associated for some time with the Jennings Brothers Lumber Company which had decided to move south, taking with it many of the more valued employees. Beatrice remembers the train trip well, and recalls that the new state impressed her as pretty much of a wilderness. In time she was to love the friendly, pleasant associations of the lumbering community—but at first she was appalled by the native women rubbing snuff, and the log cabins which were so crude in comparison to the neat, plastered homes of the northern workers. There were few if any roads at that time, and it was frequently necessary to ford the streams to go from one place to another.

Beatrice remembers the good times planned rather frequently by the mill owners for their personnel. At one time cups and saucers were ordered for a big Washington Tea, and everyone attending was given one as a souvenir. These form the nucleus of the prized cup and saucer collections which is now one of her many hobbies. Since she particularly admires the artistry and craftsmanship found in many foreign countries, it is only natural that her collection should also include fine china from France, Ireland, Portugal and numerous other countries.

Another collection centered around an incident of her youth is of shoes and boots. It began when she discovered a tiny glass, daisy pattern slipper in a trunk given her by her father. Today she has approximately 60 miniatures, the most detailed being a hand tooled leather boot from Italy. The tiniest item is a pair of sterling silver slippers about a sixteenth of an inch long.

Some years ago Bea purchased the old stone school near Shawnee Lake which was built approximately 100 years ago to replace the log cabin previously used. This is used extensively during the summer for the picnics and outings which she enjoys planning. Her most treasured possession is a large canphorwood chest brought to this country some years ago from the Philippines by family friends. This chest has quite a story but is also a real work of art with its ornate carvings.

The Gorgy family returned to this county around 1921, and ten days later Beatrice and her sister Ruth, now Mrs. Wellington Barnhard, entered Wyckoff's as saleswomen. In the 33 years since, she has served in the children's and toy departments, electric department, and as stationery buyer. She became head of the handbag department about 13 years ago.

Bonus trips have been awarded her twice by the store, the first of these taking her to Santa Fe and the Grand Canyon, the other to California. She loves travel and two years ago accompanied the Wyckoff Travel Bureau excursion to Guatemala. "I'd be off to Holland too this spring if I could arrange it," she says. "I'd really enjoy that." Come to think of it, I don't know of a thing Bea wouldn't enjoy, so long as she could see something old... something new... or something lovely.

Special Guide Available To Self-Employed

A special guide sheet to help self-employed persons in correctly reporting their net income for social security tax purposes is now available, Miss Marie T. Miller, manager of the Eastern social security office, announced yesterday.

This leaflet, "Helpful Guides on Reporting Your Self-Employment Tax," has been issued by the Social Security Administration to supplement instructions given with the Federal income tax forms.

Pointing out that social security benefits payable to a self-employed person and his family in his old age, or to his dependents in case of his death, are based on earnings credited to his social security account, Miss Miller stressed the importance of correct reporting.

Miss Miller urged all self-employed persons whose trade or business is covered by social security to get a copy before making out their 1953 Federal income tax form at any social security office. The social security tax of 2½ per cent must be paid at the time the form is filed on or before March 15.

Ships Shadowed In Security Move

Washington (AP)—The State Department said that the American Coast Guard is applying "certain supervisory measures for security reasons" on some foreign and American ships in United States ports.

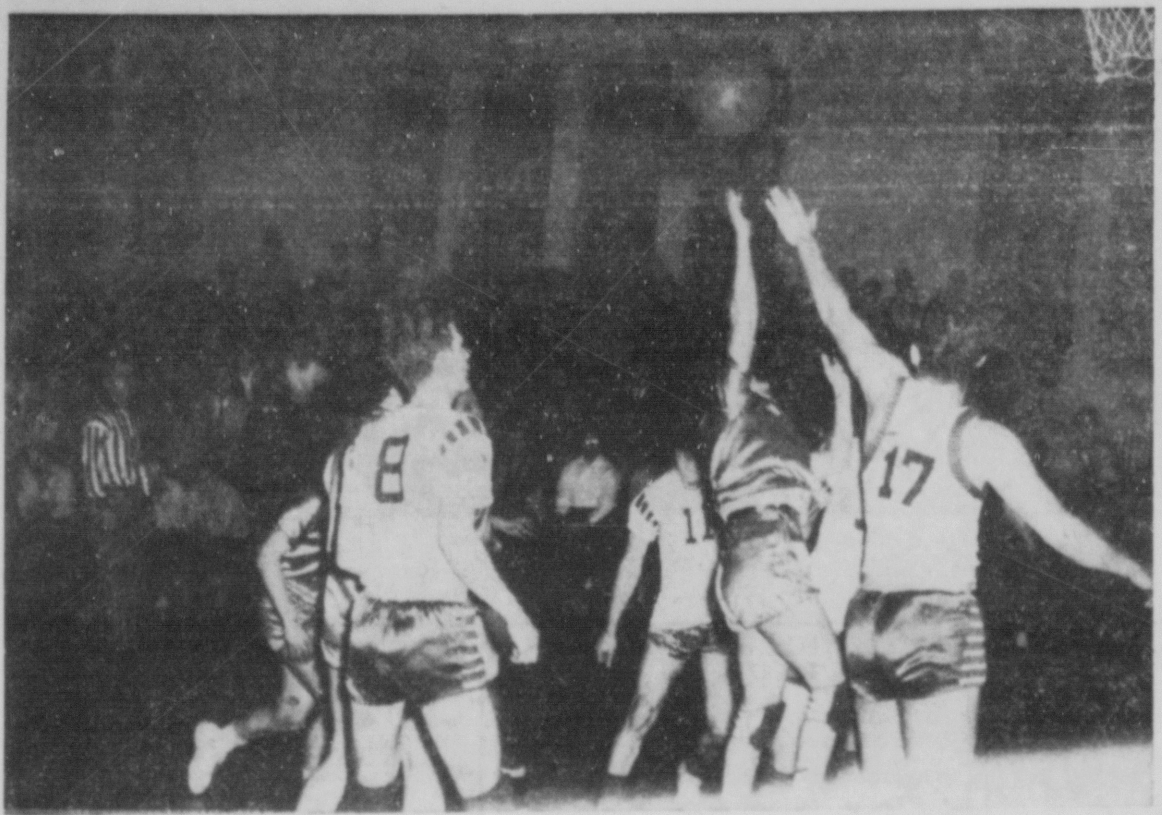

A spokesman said these precautions have been in effect "for some time" and indicated they involved search to prevent atomic bombs from being smuggled into ports.

Press officer Jamison Parker reported this at a news conference when asked to comment on British shipping men's complaints that naval cutters were "shadowing" their ships from one American port to another.

Bratton's Purse Held Up After Loss To Saxton

By Ralph Bernstein

Philadelphia (AP)—Brash young Johnny Saxton outpunched and outmaneuvered a back-peddaling and apparently disinterested Johnny Bratton last night to win an easy unanimous 10-round decision before a foot-stamping and booing crowd at the Arena. Saxton weighed 148½, Bratton 150.

The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission announced immediately after the fight that Bratton's purse was being withheld because of a lackadaisical performance.

Commissioner George Jones said that the fighter, his manager and his handlers would be given a hearing at the commission office here today. Jones said the action was prompted both by his own observations from the ring-side and the obvious distress of the crowd over Bratton's effort.

One Round

Saxton lost only one round as the 23-year-old New Yorker tried desperately to make a fight with the former 147-pound champion from Chicago. But Bratton apparently was in one of his no-fighting moods. The 26-year-old veteran punched little and continuously backed away from the aggressive Saxton.

A crowd of 6,838—who paid $27,369—booed, stamped feet, tossed papers into the ring and in general voiced their disgust with the inept Bratton. The fans certainly were not rewarded for coming out on a rainy night to see a real "turkey"—one they could have witnessed in their living rooms on CBS television.

The three officials, Judges Zach Clayton and Pete Tomasco and Referee Joe Sweeney, turned in identical cards of nine rounds for Saxton and one round—the third—for Bratton. The Associated Press also scored the fight 9-1, giving the loser the third round in which he almost scored a knockout with a long right hand that caught Saxton flush on the face.

Bratton's nose was reddened and he was cut above the right eye as Saxton scored his 44th victory against two defeats and a draw.

Irish Name Coach

South Bend, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame continued the youth movement in its football coaching ranks yesterday by naming 24-year-old Frank Johnston as freshman coach.

Johnston, who was named by Coach Clayton and Pete Tomasco, turned in identical cards of nine rounds for Saxton and one round—the third—for Bratton.

The Associated Press also scored the fight 9-1, giving the loser the third round in which he almost scored a knockout with a long right hand that caught Saxton flush on the face.

Bratton's nose was reddened and he was cut above the right eye as Saxton scored his 44th victory against two defeats and a draw.

Harmony Five Voted From Circuit

Pocono Clubs Make Ouster Move Official

Getz's Harmony Five was officially voted out of the Pocono Mountains Basketball League last night during a lengthy meeting at East Stroudsburg High School. The gathering took place during a portion of the Frank's Barbers-Cover Girls basketball game.

The Harmony Five was ousted from the circuit by a vote of three to two. Those favoring ouster were I. B. Miller Builders, Gray's Chevrolet and Williams Pharmacy. Teams in favor of keeping the Harmony Five in the circuit were Johnson's Diner and West End.

A lengthy discussion was held before the meeting, during which each team represented took turns telling the group why the Harmony Five should be banned from the league or retained in the standings, depending upon the various viewpoints.

Discussions

Thorough discussions were held, charges were made and counter charges were leveled. Each team took its turn on the floor during a meeting ruled over by Ray Davies, president of the organization. The circuit also decided to finish out the campaign with five teams, as each club has only four games to play during the balance of the current campaign.

Ray Davies agreed to stay on as president, providing each of the five teams remaining in the circuit would place a team on the floor tonight.

There appeared to be some doubt about at least one team and possibly two, as far as finishing the present campaign.

The meeting adjourned with it definitely understood that the circuit would operate with five clubs and would not reopen the Harmony Five question.

Dodgers In Good Shape

Vero Beach, Fla. (AP)—The fine physical condition of the Brooklyn Dodgers made a deep impression on Walter Alton yesterday as the new manager directed his club in its opening drill.

"Not a single fellow has reported overweight thus far," said Alton. "And quite a few of them are lighter than they have ever been in a major league camp."

Lighter

Ray Campanella (193), Don Newcombe (221) and Bob Milliken (180) were all at least 20 pounds lighter than they were when Alton last saw them.

Newcombe, Joe Black and Tom LaSorda, all of whom reported with their arms in shape, pitched to the batters. It was Newk's first appearance in a Brooklyn uniform since the 1951 playoff disaster with the Giants.

Geneva To Meet Gannon

Plans

The winner of that game, set for March 4 at Juniata College, will be district champion and will compete in the national NAIA tournament at Kansas City, Mo., according to Grove C. Washbaugh, athletic director at Westminster and chairman of the NAIA District 30.

Konstanty Agrees With Phillies

Marciano, Charles Ink Pact

By Murray Rose

New York (AP)—Heavyweight Champion "Rocky" Marciano will make his third title defense at Yankee Stadium, Thursday, June 17, when he takes on Ezzard Charles, the former titleholder, in a 15-round bout.

The match has been in the hopper for some time and negotiations finally were completed yesterday by promoter Jim Norris; Al Weill, manager of Marciano, and Tom Tannas, co-manager of Charles.

Marciano, who will be putting his crown on the block nine months after his successful defense against Roland LaStarza, will receive 40 per cent while Charles will collect 20 per cent.

In case of rain, Norris said the fight would be postponed to Monday, June 21.

Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said no decision has been made on whether the fight will be televised into the homes or beamed into theaters. The chances are that theater-TV will get the plum and home viewers will be shut out.

Norris said he thought the fight was the "best one that could be put on now" and that it would draw $500,000 to $600,000.

Weill said he believed the figure was "conservative."

In case Marciano should lose his title, he will be given a return bout within 90 days.

"That should give us a fine fight for September," said Norris with a grin.

Weill almost swallowed his cigar at Norris' kidding remark.

Charles will be the second former heavyweight king to get two cracks at regaining boxing's most valuable crown. Jim Corbett had two chances at Jim Jeffries and was knocked out both times.

No ex-heavyweight ruler ever has regained the crown and some of the best of them have tried, including Charles and Corbett. The others include Jeffries, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and "Jersey Joe" Walcott.

Poconos Overcome Deficit To Take Measure Of All-Stars

Stroudsburg's Poconos overcame a nine-point deficit at the end of the first period last night and went on to hang up a 69-55 basketball decision over the Pocono Mountains League All-Stars in the first of two games at East Stroudsburg High School.

Letters To The Editor

The Daily Record welcomes Letters to the Editor. The subjects discussed and the opinions expressed are strictly those of the writer and not necessarily the opinions of this newspaper. All letters to the Editor must be signed with a bona fide address given. Such signatures and addresses will be withheld if the writer desires.

Mr. Editor:

I am writing this in hopes that you will publish it in regards to the recent troubles in the Pocono Mountain Basketball League.

Two weeks ago a game was played between the Harmony Five and our team, the I. B. Miller team. At this game there was constant wrangling. It was a rough game all the way through but when our players were only one point behind and our player was under the basket trying to shoot the goal that would have put us in the lead with only two minutes left to play he was tripped and pushed. He struck the wall and knocked both of his front teeth out. Had he struck his head instead I am sure it would have been split open. There never was at that time or at any time since a single member of the team who said he was sorry about what happened. A very good example of sportsmanship if I ever saw one.

There were representatives of the different teams there who heard this arguing and saw the game and they all got together and called a meeting for the following day. At this meeting Mr. Getz's team was voted out of the league.

Six days later for some reason or other some of these same representatives changed their mind and they were voted back in. Now they have been whitewashed until they seem like innocent lambs that were led to slaughter and our team has been made the goat of it all although we had nothing to do with it more than to vote them out as did some of the other teams.

Our team decided to forfeit all games with the Harmony Five not because they wanted to but out of deference to me as I felt that feeling as they did it could only be a grudge fight and perhaps more blood would be shed.

We sponsored this team because we believe in good clean sports for boys and felt that it was worthwhile but I am afraid instead of accomplishing our purpose of teaching them the value of good sportsmanship we have instead involved them in some bad examples of tactics and I am afraid that those responsible have certainly not been good examples for our boys to follow.

ETHEL MILLER (MRS. I. B. MILLER JR.) MARY A. MILLER

The All-Stars ran up 17 points in the first quarter, while the slow starting Poconos could account for only eight.

But, Henry "Hank" Stetler and Jim Frailey got the Stroudsburg machine under way in the second period and the Blue Mountain League contingent rolled into a lead it never relinquished.

Margin

The Poconos held an 18-8 advantage in the second period and were on the long end of a 26-25 score at the halfway mark.

Stroudsburg held the upper hand throughout the second half, dominating the third round, 18-12, and the last quarter, 25-18.

Stetler and Frailey were the big guns in a winning cause with 20 and 15 points respectively, while Bob Miller, Lyle Krall and Harry Warner topped the losing offense. Miller registered 15 counters; Krall, 14, and Warner, 10.

Reynolds Reports To Yankee Camp

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—Alvin Reynolds, kingpin of five straight championship teams, reported to the New York Yankees training camp and expressed his willingness to work at both starting and relief roles again this season.

Reasoning

"I never kick about working both ways," he said. "A fellow doesn't pile up a big record that way but I'm willing to sacrifice the record as long as the two-way work is considered when it comes time to sign a contract."

Penn State Triumphs

State College (AP)—Penn State used its edge in height and experience to down Gettysburg 76-62 for the home team's 11th win in 18 games this season.

We sponsored this team because we believe in good clean sports for boys and felt that it was worthwhile but I am afraid instead of accomplishing our purpose of teaching them the value of good sportsmanship we have instead involved them in some bad examples of tactics and I am afraid that those responsible have certainly not been good examples for our boys to follow.

Frick Takes Verbal Slap At Johnson

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—Ford Frick yesterday rapped Sen. Edwin Johnson (D-Colo.) for proposing "discriminatory" legislation, derided feuding within baseball and called for the sport to rid itself of "a fear complex."

Frick made his comments outside the St. Louis Cardinal clubhouse after a brief conference with August Busch Jr., wealthy brewer who owns the club.

Johnson, who also is president of the Western baseball league, introduced a bill in Congress Tuesday that would subject any ball club owned by brewery interest to the jurisdiction of the anti-trust laws. The bill specifically was aimed at the Cardinals.

Recent Ruling

A recent Supreme Court ruling exempted baseball from the anti-trust laws on the basis that it was a sport, not a business.

"I can not conceive of any Congress passing discriminatory legislation which is pointed at one partner and excludes other partners," Frick said. Earlier he had told of his respect for the senator and how he appreciated the radio-TV problems the minors face.

"Even if passed I do not see how, in any way, it would solve the major problem," Frick added. "I think it is unfortunate that a difference of opinion between people within baseball's organization should arise at a time when baseball is facing serious problems outside the baseball family."

Frick had reference to pending suits by the Liberty Broadcasting System and the constant threat of congressional action.

Sen. Johnson, reached at his Capitol office, declined comment on Frick's statement. The senator said, however, that he intends to push as hard as he can for the bill aimed at Busch.

TV Group Ends Meeting

New York (AP)—The NCAA Television Committee yesterday ended three days of discussions on next fall's football television program but said any definite action would have to await further meetings.

Full Attendance

All 20 members of the committee were on hand for the talks during which representatives of individual colleges, of conferences and of the television industry offered suggestions for the 1954 program.

A spokesman said the group would meet again, probably in about a month.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

It may sound impossible, but this reporter was one of approximately 300 people who saw it happen. In case you haven't been able to follow the opening trend of thought, it might be wise for me to explain that I have reference to the manner in which Emmaus scored five points in three seconds and turned almost hopeless defeat into a fine victory Tuesday night. The manner in which Emmaus won the Lehigh Valley League contest from Stroudsburg only serves to prove that an athletic encounter is never over until the last out or the final whistle.

Stroudsburg had fought bitterly for 31 minutes and 45 seconds and during that time had outscored the high flying Emmaus crew, 68-65. The situation appeared bright indeed as the Mountaineers began to move the ball up court with only 15 seconds remaining on the clock and the home team sporting a three-point advantage. When the smoke and debris of the explosion had cleared, Emmaus was on the long end of a 70-68 count and there was 12 seconds still to be ticked off the official clock.

It all happened as Rollie Houseknecht, ace forward for Emmaus, stole the ball and broke for the basket. The Emmaus flash never reached his destination, being fouled enroute. He calmly sank the first free throw and bounced the second off the rim, Ed McGinley appeared on stage as per schedule and slapped the ball into the nets. Emmaus now had pulled into a tie and the Mountaineers brought the ball in bounds, hopeful of breaking the deadlock in regulation time or at least in overtime.

But, Stroudsburg had just moved the ball onto the playing court when Mr. Houseknecht appeared on the scene again. And, as he did only two seconds before, the Emmaus star stole the ball and drew two foul shots when a Stroudsburg eager illegally hampered the visiting shot-smith. Houseknecht calmly converted both free throws and the jig was up. Although Houseknecht came back with another foul shot conversion at the end of the game, it was just so much window trimming.

All the real damage was done in three seconds, and it happened so quickly that virtually everybody's head was spinning including the overworked brains of coaches John Kupiec and Ken Moyer. Emmaus appeared to be on the ropes just before it made what may have been the quickest strike since that folder of matches went off in your pocket unexpectedly. In all fairness to the Emmaus club, it might have been just a case of justice. With Stroudsburg leading 68-65 and 30 seconds remaining in the game, no fewer than three straight shots by the visiting team popped in and out of the basket.

Stroudsburg helped to dig its own grave once again, both in shooting and committing fouls. The Mountaineers made only 16 of 33 charity shots and lost such stalwarts as Dick Little, Dave Nevil and Captain Karl Weinberger by way of the five foul rule in the last eight minutes of play. The contest was well officiated under the circumstances, as race horse basketball was the order of the day. Fast breaks, quick passing and movement up and down the court took precedence over cool thinking and deliberate play.

The entire three-second flareup by Emmaus probably would never have occurred if Houseknecht wouldn't have fouled on his drive for the basket with 15 seconds remaining on the timepiece. Stroudsburg was enjoying a three-point lead at the time and if Houseknecht would have been allowed to score the field goal unmolested, the Mountaineers would still have held a one-point advantage with approximately 15 seconds to be played. I feel certain the W. Main St. hoopers could have protected their slim advantage for that length of time without much trouble.

My advice to a basketball player on a team leading by three points with 15 seconds to be played is to give an opposing player driving for the basket as much room as you would a steamroller in a crowded department store. Get out of his way, go sit in the bleachers, but don't ever foul him under those circumstances. The bad part about the entire game was the fact that the Mountaineers wanted to win the game so badly since it was not only the last Lehigh Valley League contest, but was also the final one to be played on the W. Main St. boards this season.

It also marked the end of truly fine careers for Karl Weinberger and Don Garavanti, senior members of the starting five, at least as far as the home court is concerned. Jim Driebe, Harold Miller, Bill Carson and Ronnie Wetherill are other seniors who suited up for the final time in their home gymnasium. The Mountaineers actually bring down the curtain on the campaign next Tuesday, when they meet shooting ability with their heated rival East Stroudsburg on the latter's hardwood. Stroudsburg won the first meeting of the two clubs, 69-66, in a real thriller.

West Chester Blanks ESSTC In Wrestling Match, 32-0

Warriors Fail To Win Single Bout

West Chester State Teachers swept every match on the agenda yesterday and scored a 32-0 wrestling victory over East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, in the Normal Hill gymnasium.

The Rams, in winning, accounted for their sixth grunt-and-grow victory of the current season, to go with one setback. The single loss was inflicted by Lock Haven Teachers, one of the strongest wrestling teams in Pennsylvania.

Yesterday's loss was the fourth of the present season for ESSTC, a team that owns one victory. The lone favorable verdict was over Swarthmore.

West Chester won by pins in half of yesterday afternoon's matches, while the other four bouts resulted in decisions, with the Rams on the long end of the count on each occasion.

The visiting team went out in front to stay in the very first match, the 123-pound affair, when Mike Forsythe pinned ESSTC's Bob Murphy in two minutes and 10 seconds.

It was the same story in the second bout, 130-pounder, as West Chester's Dan Furman scored a fall against Roy Everts in eight minutes and 42 seconds.

Good Showing
Jerry Rushin, ESSTC, put on one of the best showings for the home team, but lost a decision to Lou Coorsen in the 137-pound class, by a 4-2 count.

Pat Zagario gave West Chester five more points in the 147-pound battle by pinning Jim McCullen in four minutes and five seconds. Jim Revillo, ESSTC, battled West Chester's Clyde Witman on even terms for most of the 157-pound struggle, but dropped an 11-4 decision in the bout.

Bill Zimmerman, demonstrating almost brute strength, picked up three more points for the visiting Rams in the 167-pound encounter, as he earned a 7-1 verdict over Joe Myers.

King McLean had little trouble in the 177-pound battle as the West Chester grappler pinned Jerry Sorenson in four minutes and seven seconds.

Ken Cox, ESSTC, extended West Chester's Ken Ober to the limit in the heavyweight tussle, but the visiting gold and black clad grappler earned a 7-5 decision.

ESSTC returns to the mats next Wednesday when the Warriors wrestle against Ithaca College, on the latter's home mats.

'Mr. Shortstop' Honored On 80th Birthday

By Joe Bradis

Pittsburgh (AP) — Honus Wagner, baseball's Mr. Shortstop, celebrated his 80th birthday yesterday un-mindful of old aches and pains but reveling in memories of 40 glorious years in baseball.

His cozy home in nearby Carnegie bulged with newspapermen, old friends, the family and of course a host of cards and letters — one a special "happy birthday" greeting from President Eisenhower.

In the party was a 25-pound turkey — a gift from Oilman Mike Benedum.

"Old Mike never forgets me," chorled the bandy-legged, barrel-chested Dutchman. "And that greeting from President Eisenhower was really something. How about that?"

Eight Titles

Wagner's thick, powerful shoulders and massive arms earned him eight National League batting titles over a 21-year major league playing career ending in 1917 with a lifetime batting average of .329.

Honus spent 37 of his 40 years in baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates. One of the first members elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, the Dutchman yearns for the day he can see his statue in Pittsburgh's Schenley Park — the back door to the Pirates Forbes Field home.

A committee composed mainly of former baseball players is trying to raise the necessary money. By the end of the week more than 20,000 letters soliciting funds will be sent to sports fans throughout the nation. Donations are rolling in at the rate of $300-$400 a day.

Honus has only one wish. He'd like to see his beloved Pirates win another pennant.

YMCA Cagers In Two Tilts

Two games will feature the action in the YMCA Basketball League tonight, both contests slated for the Stroudsburg High court.

Rivals
Worthington Mower and Penn-Dell Dairy match scoring ability in the opening contest, while Frank's Barbers, first half title holder, tangle with Biggs' Restaurant in the nightcap.

Four more rounds of games remain before the end of the current campaign.

Maguire Recalls Manner In Which Basketball Was Played In Old East Stroudsburg Gym

Editor's Note—This story written by Dr. Frank P. Maguire, commissioner of Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, appeared in the East Stroudsburg High publication yesterday. Due to its great interest, both the author and East Stroudsburg have given The Daily Record permission to use the article today.

By Dr. Frank P. Maguire

Many changes have taken place during the last 34 years in physical facilities as they contributed to the athletic program of the East Stroudsburg High School.

I have been requested to comment on my recollections of the old gymnasium now replaced by the present structure. Well, it was something to remember, which I am sure most of our ardent fans do, and particularly all the squad members who played back as far as 1919-1920, when John VanWhy, Lester Walters, Paul Travis, Carl Nauman and Elson Smith formed the starting lineup that season.

I do not recall the exact dimensions of the building, except that it was comparatively narrow, and the side walls constituted the width of the playing area.

Protection

There was an entrance at both ends of the building, and spectators were confined to each end, right up to the edge of the playing area. They were protected by a white cord net in front of each section of bleachers which served to keep the ball inbounds at all times. In fact there was no out-of-bounds on any of the four sides.

The most memorable physical feature of the building was the "pot-bellied" coal stove which stood along the wall near one end of the playing court. Since this was the only means of heating the entire building it was not uncommon for the sides of the stove to become fiery red.

As an added protection to the players, during a game, in addition to the net, a few students stood and formed a sort of phalanx in front of the stove outside the net. On the other hand, when the fire was banked the gas fumes of that stove were something else to contend with.

The floor was made of yellow pine and rested almost on the ground. The result was that the moisture absorbed from the ground put the first "permanent wave" in Monroe County in that floor, so that the players ran up and down hilly. Dribbling was much more common then than today, and the bounce reaction of the ball from the floor made dribbling quite an art. In which Elson Smith was the most skillful I have ever seen in high school ranks since that time.

Even Worse

Notwithstanding those conditions, and even some worse playing conditions on several floors away from home, the team lost only one game during the entire season. East Stroudsburg High School, although not a member of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association at that time, nevertheless on the basis of the season's record, the team was invited to participate in the PIAA State championship tournament at State College that year.

We were eliminated by Fifth Avenue High School, Pittsburgh. Probably the physical features of the "old gym" were as much a handicap to the spectators as to the contesting teams. A year or so later all home games were played in the old Company "G" Armory which was later replaced by the new building on the same site.

IBW Keglers Ready
International Boiler Works bowling will take place at the George N. Kemp American Legion Post alleys today, at 7 p.m.

Alleys one and two — Kitchen vs. Lockard.

Alleys three and four — Sisco vs. Butts.

Loretto, Pa. (AP) — Francis College dropped football yesterday but hit the big time in basketball with its first invitation to the NIT tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden.
